ABOUT SHUOZHOU

The Shuozhou government has substantially supported multiple AsianCAA conferences.

Notable industries are primarily mining of coal and other ores such as iron, bauxite, mica, manganese and graphite. Other economic sectors include agriculture, chemicals and ceramics.

Shuozhou is a culturally rich city with a long history and a galaxy of advanced culture and talents. The local Zhiyu site shows that humans had been living here as early as twenty-eight thousand years ago.

Shuozhou prides itself in being the national comprehensive utilization demonstration base of industrial solid waste and a national industrial green transformation pilot city.

In 2015, the city's GDP reached 90.11 billion yuan; the industrial added value reached 25.49 billion yuan and the fixed asset investment reached 93.71 billion yuan.

The Yingxian Tower, built in 1056 during the Liao Dynasty, is one of the main sites of the region. It was built entirely of wood, without using nails, and serves as a museum of calligraphy.
